

[For the Saturday Evening Post.]
TO ALFRED.
Reply to an Effort at Reconciliation.
A friend!—ah, 'tis a sacred name,
Which few, alas, can justly claim;
With frowns and smiles it acts no part,
'Tis founded on a kindred heart.
Why call me friend, or wherefore ask,
Why I still "wear an angry mask?"
No masker I, no veil I wear,
But as they seem, my passions are.
Wouldst have me smile and cringe to thee,
Ask pardon of thy dignity,
Live at thy feet, and think me bless'd,
When of thy pardon I'm possess'd?
No,—if I gave offence to thee
In daring for myself to see;
If this thy obtest heart offend,—
I cannot smile on such a friend.
I did misjudge thee when I thought
By kindred ties our hearts were wrought,
I did not think deceit lay there,
When all appear'd so true, so fair.
But now the bubble's burst and I
Life's rugged road alone shall try;
Yet this instruction I've receiv'd:
Man lives, alas, to be deceiv'd.
March 19, 1122. WILLIAM.

FOREIGN ARTICLES.

The Count de Montholon, in a letter to the editor of the Paris Moniteur, says that Bonaparte's Will, as published by the book-sellers, entitled 'The Testament of Napoleon,' is an incorrect fabrication, and full of errors.

Twelve houses have been burnt down in Ireland, in addition to the fourteen mentioned in former advices—making in all, twenty-six.

Cobbett, flattered by the incense of the agriculturalists, now modestly predicts that he shall one day be Prime Minister of England, and he as modestly assigns the situation of office-keeper to Mr. Vansittart!

It is announced that another novel by the author of Waverley, will shortly appear. It is said to be called The Fortune of Night, and that the story is connected with the history of Heriot, the founder of an hospital in Edinburgh.

Letters from Rome state, that the Pope was so dangerously ill, that his death was expected every moment. The Archduke Randolph of Austria, who was made a Cardinal two years ago, is certain to succeed to the Chair.

Some idea may be formed of the extent of traffic in the city of London, from the following account of what passed over London Bridge in one day. Foot passengers 56,110; coaches 871; gigs and taxed carts 520; waggons 587; carts and drays 2,576; and horses 472.

DISTURBANCES IN IRELAND.

LONDON, Jan. 25.

From the Limerick Chronicle of Saturday. A most barbarous and inhuman murder was committed on a man named Foley, on the night of Thursday last, on the lands of Morivoy, near Newcastle, in this county, and the body afterwards thrown into the river. William and John Cagney (brothers) were brought into town, yesterday morning, by a party of Major Wilcock's police, charged with the murder.

The house of John Sullivan, Esq. of Camas, was entered a few nights since, by an armed party, who plundered it of $21 in bank notes and cash.

Captain Rock, of the barony of Corkaginy, who was taken at the head of a detachment of Whiteboy cavalry, on Sunday night by Francis Eagor, Esq. of Minard, was escorted to Trales, on Tuesday, by a party of the 39th regiment, from Dingle. This deluded man, named Dennis Clevene, was brought forward bare-footed and bare-legged. He excused himself to the magistrate on the occasion of being taken, by saying, that he was only proceeding with his squadron on the above night, with the intention of depriving a man, who had served him with a process, of the original.

Desperate attack at Bantry.—On Friday morning last, at 4 o'clock, A. M. a body of men, consisting of between 300 and 700, well armed and most valiantly, attacked the house of D. Mellefont, Esq. and also the houses of Messrs. Doyle and Patterson, from all which they took arms. The Earl of Bantry, with that promptitude and gallantry which mark his character, hearing of the circumstance in about three hours after, proceeded with five or six of his friends, with a hope of cutting some of them off before they separated, and made for the glen road leading to Macroom, where they overtook them about daylight, beyond the Chapel at Ballingearing, crossing a mountain road leading to Lackavane, in Kerry, about 14 miles from Bantry. The insurgents having taken to the heights above the road, gave them a full view of his lordship's little band, and they thereby were encouraged to make an attempt to surround their pursuers, and they commenced a regular attack, shouting from every hill, and firing, after quitting their horses. The party of his Lordship retreated back on the glen road, finding themselves unequal to contend with superior numbers, firing slowly to cover their retreat—the insurgents, however, not only discharged their arms, but rolled and threw down stones into the glen.—Lord Bantry had a narrow escape, for one stone was particularly thrown at him, but Mr. White, his lordship's brother, was so successful as to shoot this man, and two others are supposed to be wounded; the party of his lordship maintained their ground as long as possible before they returned to Bantry, with a view to get possession of the killed and wounded, which we are sorry to say, they were not able to effect. Had the account reached his lordship in sufficient time to have enabled him to collect his neighbours, a good account would have been given of these depredators.

DRURY LANE.

KEAN has performed some of his most celebrated characters, Macbeth and Othello. We have so repeatedly had occasion to speak of him in those characters, that we shall offer no observations upon the former; but his Othello demands a word or two.—There is something highly original in Kean's performance of Othello. His conception of this character is equally new and just. In the hands of Kean, Othello is no longer the ferocious, savage, vindictive monster, without remorse, delicacy, or feelings, which we have seen him represented; he no longer excites unmixed hatred and abhorrence by a mere harsh outline of cruelty and demonic fury; but he is exhibited, as Shakspeare doubtless intended the character to be, a man "more sinned against than sinning;" as one not "easily jealous," as possessed of an open, candid, generous nature, capable of the delicacies of love, and of all the refinements of friendship. Kean, in his performance of Othello, has recovered the character from the former corruptions and abuses of it, and has presented it to our eyes, and to our hearts, as it really is. His Othello, therefore, always excites the compassion and feelings of his audience, and is perhaps the most moving of all the performances of this excellent actor.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Capt. Lavender of the ship Huntress, arrived at New-York, brings accounts of the murder of a Chinese woman, at Whampoa, by a sailor (an Italian) belonging to the ship Emily, of Baltimore, and of the stoppage of trade in consequence, till the sailor was given up and executed. It appears that the sailor, in a fit of drunkenness, threw a heavy jar at the woman, in a boat alongside the ship, which struck her on the head and knocked her into the water. On examination of her head it was found that the skull was fractured. The Viceroy demanded that the man should be given up to be punished under the laws of China. The Americans offered to produce him, provided a court could be held at the American Factory. The powyee went down to the ship with the intention of bringing the man away, but the Americans resisted and threatened to abandon the ship to them: upon which they left her, and two days afterwards went down with a large force, took the man, who the second day after underwent a secret examination of a few minutes, and was strangled the next morning—after which trade was resumed.

Murder.—A letter from New-Orleans, contains the following facts:—"There has been some fashionable and serious fighting here. Judges Favrot and Henaud fought with broad swords."—The former was killed, the latter supposed to be mortally wounded. Lawyer Christie shot Scallan the Auctioneer, in the thigh. How much more useful, and I may say honorable would it have been if those men had shed their blood off Cape Antonio." [Meaning, we suppose, in fighting congenial spirits, the Pirates.]

A violent gale has been experienced at Charleston. On Saturday, the 9th, an attempt was made by seven active negroes to carry over the mail, (which had not crossed in two days), their efforts were not only in vain, but near the bank or marsh of Hog Island, the boat struck and overset.—The poor fellows, with considerable presence of mind, saved the mail, themselves, and a woman who was on board; and after clinging to the boat for two hours up to their chin in the water, were providentially taken up by the other ferry boat. The latter, after several attempts to cross, had struck upon the same spot.

Spontaneous Combustion.—A most singular instance of spontaneous combustion occurred a few days since on the turnpike road from Baltimore to Gettysburg. A wagon loaded with dry goods and groceries, going to the Westward, took fire, and before it could be extinguished consumed a wagon-bed, one or two of the wheels, several bags containing coffee, and a quantity of dry goods. The combustion is supposed to have originated in the domestic cotton goods, of which there was a considerable amount.

Narrow Escape.—On Monday evening, a young man, mate of a vessel lying at the north end, Boston, was returning on board, about half past 9 o'clock, he heard a person fall into the water between the vessel and the wharf. The tide being nearly out, he with much difficulty got down a distance of 12 or 15 feet, and after groping about in the water some time, he last felt a man's heels, his body being entirely under water, and his head under the vessel's bottom.—He succeeded in drawing him out, but owing to intoxication, and being filled with water, the fellow was unable to stand. After supporting him some time, at a loss how to extricate him, both being dragged to the middle in the water, he took his pocket handkerchief and tied the fellow to one of the posts of the wharf. Having secured him thus, he got upon deck, rigged a tackle, and after descending and making a rope fast round his body, succeeded in hoisting him on board, where suitable means were made use of for his recovery.

It has been ascertained that more than one hundred thousand persons have been interred in Trinity Church Yard, New York, and it being found impossible, any longer to inter one without disinterring another, a proposition has been made to have the ground levelled, and adorned with trees, in order that it may become a place for healthy promenade. The same course is proposed to be pursued with St. Paul's Church yard in that city.

The mahogany tree in St. Domingo is tall, straight and beautiful, with red flowers, and oval lemon-sized fruit. When this tree grows on a barren soil, the grain of the wood is beautifully variegated—upon rich ground it is pale, open, and of little value. The mahogany tree also grows in this island; and its wood furnishes slabs for furniture, interspersed with beautiful green and yellow veins like marble; but the dust of this wood is of so acrid and poisonous a nature that the carpenters are forced to work with gauze masks to protect them from its injurious effects.

Jemima Wilkinson.—The life of this celebrated and artful impostor, has lately been published at Geneva in this state. The work is spoken favorably of in the newspapers. An article in the Geneva Gazette says, "her's was no ordinary character." In the early part of her life she attracted much notice. By her pretensions to inspiration, she collected a band of followers who did not "leave or forsake" her at her death, and who even now, doubtless, believe that "the Friend" was second to none, save the Almighty. A delusion so rare, and a faith so steadfast, in a matter of speculation only, has seldom been witnessed. It proves how easy the human mind is influenced by wondrous and extraordinary characters—and if Jemima had possessed power to force the adoption of her faith, she at this moment might, like Mahomet, have had her temples and her sacrifices—her altars and her ministers. The men of this day are astonished at her success, and at the delusion of her followers—and wonder how it was that any could be so weak as to believe in doctrines, founded and supported by cunning and imposition only.

The number of persons placed on the pension list under the provisions of the act of Congress, March 13, 1818, was, 18,418. This number was reduced under the act of May 1, 1820, to 12,088. Of persons on the former list, who applied for a continuance of the pension 2392 were rejected. From the date of the first to the passing of the second, 252 pensioners died.

Two privateers were off St. Barts, when Captain Smith, who arrived at Boston a few days since, left there, under the Venezuelan flag—one the schr. Condor, Samuel G. Pelot, captain, came in the port and anchored, but was ordered out again by the Governor immediately. It was said the Governor's conduct on this occasion, was influenced by a piece he had read in a Philadelphia paper, which stated that the noted Pelot had arrived at St. Barts, and that the Governor had promised him protection, &c. By ordering him out, he wished to shew that the statement was incorrect.

Interesting fact.—There is now living at Eastbury, in the state of Connecticut, a very aged and respectable man, of the name of Hollister, who accompanied General Amherst, in the famous expedition against Fort Oswego, during the old French war. About a year ago, he informed a friend of ours, that in order to transport the heavy ordnance and baggage belonging to the army from the waters of the Mohawk through Wood creek into the Oneida lake, a temporary canal was constructed in the following manner:—Log dams were built across the stream at various places, as a kind of locks. As soon as the water rose to a sufficient height, to carry the boats from the Mohawk into Wood Creek, the dam was suddenly removed, and so on through the other dams, until they reached Oneida lake. This fact becomes interesting in connection with the early history of the Western Canal, and shows that a rude species of canalling was adopted on this route more than sixty years ago. [N. Y. Statesman.]

From the Doylestown Correspondent.

During the second week of the court lately held at this place, a cause was tried, which interested the feelings, and excited the strong curiosity of the Farmers—of the Millers—indeed of the community at large:—Wm. Williams, of Buckingham, came into court to claim Damages of Thomas Paxson, for obstructing the water on his own premises; diverting it from its natural course, and using it to the injury of the said Williams.

The principal facts are these:—Williams owns a Grist mill, turned by a slight stream of water, which passes thro' the plantation of Paxson, immediately before it falls into Williams's Mill-pond. Some 3 or 4 years since, the predecessor of Paxson pulled down his old barn, thro' the yard of which the stream in question was conveyed, and erected a new barn, a few rods distant from the old one, but on the opposite side of a public highway.—Paxson changed the course of the water, conducted it across the highway, thro' the yard of the new barn, for the convenience of watering his cattle, &c. and occasionally, by damming, flowed part of the water over his meadow: delivering the surplus into its natural channel, where it passed the line of his own land, on its passage to the Mill of Williams.

An intelligent Jury received the Judge's charge, and after an absence of about two hours, returned into court with a Verdict for the Defendant.

Herkimer, N. Y. March 14.

FIRE.—On Sunday morning last, the dwelling house occupied by Mr. Joseph Paul, in this town, was consumed by fire. When it was discovered the roof was falling in; and but a trifling amount of property was saved.

The distillery of Reuben Leonard, in Winfield, was lately burnt, together with all its contents.

AUBURN, N. Y. March 13.

Melancholy Accident.—On Friday the 1st instant, Mr. Apolos Mudge, of Wolcott, Seneca county, went out in company with another person, to hunt racoons;—while in pursuit of their game, they had occasion to cut down a beech tree, which in falling struck the top of an ash, and broke it off, when it fell, and struck Mr. Mudge on the head, which fractured his skull so that his brains run out. He languished about six hours and expired, aged 23, leaving a wife and one child. He had lately purchased and moved on to a new place, and had just commenced business, when he was thus suddenly arrested by the hand of death.

CLAIRBORNE, (Alab.) Feb. 20.

Fire.—A fire broke out in the town of Columbus, Alab. on Tuesday, 19th inst. about 9 o'clock in the morning, and continued until 3 o'clock in the evening, which destroyed every building in the town except the tenement and out houses occupied by Joseph H. Howell, Esq. We have not heard the loss sustained by the unfortunate inhabitants.

Manlius, N. Y. March 13.

MELANCHOLY FIRE.—Mr. Weston, aged 85 years, perished in the flames which consumed the dwelling house of his son, Doctor Hezekiah Weston, of Pompey, on Monday last. The old gentleman went into the house, we understand, to obtain water from the well, and is supposed to have been overcome with fatigue or smoke, and was unable to return. In the confusion incident to such scenes of conflagration, the old gentleman was not missed until his spirit had abandoned the frail, weary tabernacle of clay, to mingle its ashes in one common ruin with the tenement of wood. The aged mother of Dr. Weston broke her leg in escaping from the house.

From the Long-Island Farmer.

Robbery.—On the night of the 15th inst. the Common School-house, in Hempstead, was broken open and robbed of 60 volumes of books, consisting of Bibles, Testaments, Geographies, Arithmetics, Spelling Books, Murray's Reader, Introductions, Dictionaries, Columbian Orators, &c.

Musk-ratting.—We are informed that one man in this county, caught two hundred and ten in one night; and another Mr. John Hildreth, took in one night one hundred, and expects to make up the round number of two thousand during the season—which, at the present high price of about forty cents a piece, will bring the clever sum of eight hundred dollars; a good winter's work for a Farmer. [Salem Messenger.]

MORE PIRACY.

Capt. Boyd of the Pegasus, at Charleston, reports that the schr. Frink, of Warren, R. I. from Wilmington, for Havana, touched at Matanzas, and shortly after leaving there was boarded by a small boat, which came out at the same time, and robbed him of a quantity of doubloons, and the whole of the clothing of the crew: they afterwards threw overboard the Captain, who caught hold of the rudder, and was picked up by the cabin boy, who was cut away in the stern-boat by the pirates. On the approach of another vessel, they left the schooner, after setting her on fire, which was put out by the crew, and the vessel arrived at Havana. The schr. Miller, of Boston, was robbed about the same time of all his cargo, (except lumber) which consisted of lard, herrings, and candles, supposed by the same boat. Ten days before Capt. Boyd sailed, 4 piratical boats arrived at Regla, loaded with plunder. Captains Frink and Miller, with others who had been plundered, complained to the Police, and after two days search five were arrested, and recognised by Capt. Miller, as well as some boxes of herrings, and safely lodged in jail. The boats are clinker built, apparently English or American.

The brig Alliance of Kennebunk, from Port au Prince, for New-Orleans, was robbed and burnt on the 15th of Jan. by a piratical schr. 7 leagues from Cape Antonio. After robbing the captain and crew of every thing, they turned them adrift in the long boat. The boat was fortunately picked up by a Spanish schooner, after being 5 days at sea, and the crew carried into Havana.

A letter from Paris of January 10th, received in New-York city, remarks, that a Navigation Act was contemplated by the French government, providing for the admission of the produce of the United States in French and American vessels only, and coming direct from the latter ports.

MIRROR OF LIFE.

TO SHew THE VERY AGE AND SEASON OF THE TIMES, IN FORM AND PICTURE.

The counting house of Messrs. Duffell & Duffell, in Walnut street, was open on Monday night, and several packages of silks.

Fire!—Between 8 and 9 o'clock Wednesday evening, a fire broke out in the third story of the house occupied by Nathans, in Second street above Third street.—The firemen and citizens went out with their accustomed alacrity, from the scanty supply of water at the fire made such progress, that it was not until the roofs of Mr. Nathans's and Dr. Thomas's houses were destroyed, that the roofs of two other houses were injured. It was occasioned by the carelessness of a servant girl, who had kindled a fire in one of the upper rooms, and was attending to it.

THE OLIO.

"Variety's the very spice of life,
That gives it all its flavour."

A Dyer's Epitaph on his Wife.

My wife has died and gone to dust,
A useful wife to me;
For not a soul alive, I trust,
Has dy'd so much as she.
To dye, indeed, was all her pride,
For three score years and four;
She dy'd each day she liv'd—and died
When she could live no more.
Her name was up for dying well,
And ready at each call,
The hose she dy'd were sure to sell,
When she could live no more.
But she grew old—I know not why,
Her dying days were past;
So when for want of hose to dye,
She died herself at last.

HOW TO BECOME CONSEQUENTIAL.

A brow austere, a circumspect eye,
A frequent shrug of the os humeri,
A nod significant, a stately gait,
A blustering manner, and a tone of weight,
A smile sarcastic, an expressive stare,
Adapt all these as time and place will bear,
Then rest assur'd that those of little sense
Will set you down—A man of consequence.

A hint to News-paper readers.—In a country news-room, the following notice is written over the chimney:—"Gentlemen learning to spell are requested to use yesterday's paper!"

Beautiful Colours.—"Your colours are beautiful," said a deeply rouged lady to a portrait painter.—"Yes," answered he, "your ladyship and I deal at the same shop."

It won't be told.—A gentleman riding near the forest of Whichwood, in Oxfordshire, asked a poor man what that wood was called: he said Whichwood, your honour. Why that wood, cried the gentleman. Whichwood, your honour. Why that wood, I tell you again: the poor man still replied Whichwood.—Ours! cried the gentleman, you are as senseless as the wood itself. It may be so, answered the poor man, but you do not know Whichwood.

ECCENTRIC BARBER.

An eccentric barber, some years ago, opened a shop under the walls of the King's Bench prison. The windows being broken when he entered it, he mended them with paper, on which appeared "Shave for a Penny," with the usual invitation to customers; and over the door was scrawled these lines:

Here lives Jimmy Wright,
Shaves as well as any man in England,
Most—not quite.

Who loved any thing eccentric saw descriptions, and hoping to extract from the author whom he justly considered a character, he pulled at him, and thrusting his head through a pane into the shop, called out, "Is Jimmy Wright at home?" The barber immediately forced his head through another pane into the street, and replied, "No, Sir, he has just poft out." Foote laughed heartily, and gave the man a guinea.

A FRENCHMAN AND HIS PIG.

A Frenchman, who had immediate occasion to stop under a gateway, saw a sow and litter of pigs pass him. He stood some time admiring the diversity of colours, till he found an opportunity of popping one under his coat, and running off with it. This he attempted, but was pursued by the hostler, who overtook and seized him with the pig in his possession. He was taken to Bow-street, and fully committed. When the trial came on, the circumstance of the theft being clearly proved, he was found guilty, and asked what he had to say why sentence should not be passed? "Me Lor, I vil trouble you attendez two tree word vat I vil say. I French gentleman, I no understand vat you call de tief dis country. Mais I vil tell you bout d'affaire, and you vil find dat I am innocent. Me Lor, I never tief a pig my life time." "Why, it was found upon you." "Oh, certainly, but I was take him vid his own consent." "How do you mean?" "Vy, ven I was see de mammy pig, and his children, I was very much in love vid dem; and dis little pig, I look his face, I say, you pretty little velow, will you come live vid me for one month? He says, a week! a week! So I have taken him for a week, dat's all."

CARRIAGES AND GIGS.

THE SUBSCRIBER respectfully tenders his thanks for the patronage which has heretofore been bestowed upon him, and apprizes his friends and the public that his establishment has recently been improved, and augmented to an extent which enables him to supply the calls of his customers at the most immediate notice. ### The Novelist's Library, Vol. I.

JUST published, by HICKMAN & HAZARD, No. 121 Chestnut street, THE NOVELIST'S LIBRARY, Vol. I. containing the History of Nourjahad, by Mrs. F. Sheridan, with a Biographical Preface, and embellished with a handsome frontispiece. Price to subscribers, 50 cts. per vol. sewed—no non-subscribers, 62 1/2 cts. per vol.

Our friends and the public are respectfully informed, that we intend to publish, in a neat and uniform manner, two editions 32mo, and 8vo. vols. of the most popular tales, among which are, Johnson's Rasselas, Voltaire's Zadig, Amor and Hamlet, Tales of the Castle, Fairy Tales, &c. Each work to be embellished with an elegant frontispiece. The object in printing two editions, is to offer a choice of two sizes—each will contain the same matter. Some will prefer the 32mo, on account of its being more portable, others the 8vo, for being in fewer volumes.

MA.

Discovery.
It is, that John Oldridge has fortunately discovered, by the power of chemistry, the grand desideratum of preventing Hair from falling off in FORTY-EIGHT HOURS. This balm will most absolutely, in the course of a short time, make the Hair grow healthy and thick. J. O. is well aware that many fraudulent and impostitious Oils, &c. have been imposed on the public, and therefore prudence will be severe against his discovery, until trial shall convince his patrons that such a thing exists in nature as a certain preventive against the loss of hair. This valuable balm will cause whiskers and beards to grow rapidly. No doors below second, and next door to the Washington Museum.
March 2—tf

WE, the undersigned, do hereby certify, that we have, in various cases, used the Balm of Columbia, lately discovered by John Oldridge, of Philadelphia, and have found it highly serviceable not only as a preventive against the falling off of hair, but also as a restorative. We, therefore, feel assured of its excellence, and consider it valuable and well worthy the attention of the public. In testimony whereof, we have added our respective signatures, and given it our warmest recommendation.
Abraham A. Robinson, 55 South Front street.
